

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Rupa Kay. During her time at Impact Networking, Rupa consistently demonstrated professionalism, strong communication skills, and a genuine commitment to building meaningful client relationships.

Rupa worked directly within my organization and played an important role in supporting strategic client engagement efforts across managed IT, cybersecurity, and technology consulting initiatives. She brought a high level of energy and accountability to her work and was able to quickly establish credibility with both internal teams and external stakeholders.

One of Rupa's greatest strengths is her ability to connect with people. She approaches conversations thoughtfully, listens well, and maintains a positive and professional demeanor even in fast-paced or challenging situations. She was dependable, coachable, and always willing to step up to support the broader team.

In addition to her interpersonal strengths, Rupa demonstrated strong organizational skills and a willingness to continuously learn and adapt. She represented our organization well and contributed positively to our culture and client experience.

I am confident that Rupa will be an asset to any organization she joins. I appreciate her contributions during her time with our team and wish her continued success in the next chapter of her career.

Please feel free to contact me if you would like to discuss her qualifications further.

Sincerely,

Robert Ford
Vice President
